Confiscated Oil. State Oil Inspector Caldwell has discovered that the Western tank line company of this city is dealing in an inferior quality of kerosene, and proposes putting a stop to it. He recently found that the company had about two hundred barrels of cheap stuff in storehouse, and immediately notified the management, under penalty, that not another drop of it must be shipped to or sold at any point in the state. The company, it is said, is disposed to contest the matter. An inspector, however, has been stationed at the warehouse and will not allow any of the oil to be moved.

A Suggestion. OMAHA, Nov. 16.—To the Editor of THE BEE: In listing the names of voters in this city I understand that alphabetical arrangement has been abandoned and the street system substituted. If this be true, the name of the street the voter lives on is the base to work from. It is the first fact the clerks want to know. If a voter is able to tell the number to the left of his name on the list, the number is so much easier to find than "John" among the Smiths, that this number in the second fact the clerks want to know. Then follows the name of the voter with his residence, number, something like this: "Sixteenth street—No. 230, John Smith, house No. 210." I believe that by voting in this way time would be saved, and we would not hear so much grumbling at the polls. No. 434.

DR. DURYEA.

He Explains His Position Upon Y. M. C. A. Evangelization. OMAHA, Nov. 20.—To the Editor of THE BEE: Your reporter called on you yesterday morning, and said he wished to explain the occasion of some inaccuracies in the report of my remarks on the relations of the Young Men's Christian association and its work to the churches, which I made at a meeting of the Ministerial union on Monday morning. I supposed this was his whole errand. A conversation followed in the course of which I endeavored to explain the spirit and intention of my remarks as friendly to the association and their work, and pointed out some mistakes which had occurred in the efforts of some associations to do the general work of evangelization. In his effort to report the substance of a long conversation, my reporter has been careless of the matters about which we talked, and has presented them in such connections as imply a criticism of the Omaha association, which I did not once allude to, and which, as I have always understood, has been singularly free from mistakes of all kinds, as well as from the errors to which I referred.

While making this correction I wish to add that the remarks I made on Monday will be misunderstood, if they are taken to make a distinction between the efforts of the members of the association to do other good in the Christian sense by all wise and manly methods, and the ministerial union, and the work of general evangelization in the city and adjacent towns. This seems to be the work of the churches, for which they are fully and justly responsible, and for which the care and oversight of those who preside over them and their activities. The association is not less by any means, and is itself to the service of the young men of the city, for this will tax to the utmost their energy and resources. I wish to repeat, that I had no intention of making any distinction between the efforts of the members of the association to do other good in the Christian sense by all wise and manly methods, and the ministerial union, and the work of general evangelization in the city and adjacent towns.

It is being inquired into in the District Court. George A. Soule was placed on trial before Judge Hopewell yesterday morning, charged with murder in the first degree. Soule's crime was the shooting of young Peter Ruser, at Luser's park, on Sunday, September 17.

The damages awarded the plaintiff were $2,500, which is $1,000 more than she secured at the first trial. When the case was tried before Judge Dundy granted a new trial on the grounds that she should have given certain instructions which were omitted.

YOU ARE FOOLING AWAY MONEY if you buy an overcoat without looking at our stock. Our assortment overshadows everything of its kind in the city. Never in all the years that we have been in business have we had such vast quantities of fine and elegant overcoats, and never were they sold at such low figures. We are in the height of the season, our overcoat department is booming, you will always find it crowded and why is it so? Are the people crowding our store because we give them poorer goods or charge more than others? Would they come to us to buy overcoats that can be had cheaper elsewhere? NOT MUCH! They come here because they know they can save money, and save considerable too.

Our large business is the result of our ability to buy right and the will to sell right, our large business is the result of fair dealing and of better values than you can get elsewhere for your money.

And in no article can we prove that to you quicker than in an overcoat. Clothing Houses as a rule make more profit on overcoats than they do on other goods.
